KOBAL FAMILY WINERY & VOŠTINIĆ-KLASNIĆ

WITH ŠPELA KOBAL & TOMISLAV VOŠTINIĆ
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025 · 4PM - 7PM

The history of Croatia and Slovenia has been intertwined with neighboring Italy and Austria for centuries, as both were often part of the same larger country (Austria-Hungary; Yugoslavia). Grapes in the area sometimes have names in four different languages. Both countries are known mostly for aromatic white wines, but like the nearby Alto Adige region of Italy, they also make reds. Experience for yourself the unique grape varieties and expressions from two of our favorite regional producers: Kobal Family Winery in Slovenia and Voštinić-Klasnić in Croatia.

KOBAL FAMILY WINERY is a small boutique winery in northeastern Slovenia, located near the Austrian border—near the town of Ptuj, which has a rich tradition of nearly 2000 years of winemaking. Kobal specializes in white wines that exemplify purity of terroir and varietal expression. They grow Sauvignon Blanc, Pinot Grigio, Furmint, Yellow Muscat, Traminer, Chardonnay, Welschriesling and the red grape, Blaufränkisch (also known as Lemberger).

VOŠTINIĆ-KLASNIĆ is located on a small hill near Ivanić Grad, in the region of Moslavina, far away from the bustle of the city of Zagreb, surrounded by vineyards and orchards. The family has been making wine since 1936 when the great-grandfather planted the first vines of Škrlet in the region. The winery bears the surname of the original winemaker Tomislav Voštinić, and his grandfather Klasnić, from whom he inherited the vineyard and his flair for winemaking.
